FIELD MENTALLY UNSOUND.

SO JUDGE VAN BRUNT DECIDES.

THE PRISONER TO BE COMMITTED TO AN ASYLUM

FOR FURTHER EXAMINATION .. Judge Van Brunt, sitting in the Court of Oyer and bankrupt firm of Field, Lindley, Wiechers & Co., Was mentally incapable of conducting his defence. prisoner will therefore be committed to an asylum. The Judge expressly says that he does not believe that the evidence proves Field to be insone. The jury in Oyer and Terminer disagreed, eight believing District-Attorney Nicoll said yesterday that he would prepare an order in a day or two for the sign. The asylum to which Field will be sent will be designated by Judge Van Brunt, and the prisoner will be taken there so that his actions be observed by disinterested persons. The full text of the opinion is as follows:

the prisoner will be taken there so that his actions may be observed by disinterested persons. The full text of the opinion is as follows:

The issue involved in this preliminary trial of the detendant's guilt or innocence of the crime of the detendant's guilt or innocence of the crime of which he had been indicted, but as to whether his mental condition was such that he could understand the nature of the proceedings against him and conduct his defence. This investigation can be conducted by the court shone, or the court may refer the matter to a commission. In the case at bar, the court called in a jury for its advice, or it may refer the matter to a commission. In the case at bar, the court called in a jury for the purpose of alding the conscience of the court in the determination of this question; and although the jury failed to agree, yet the impression which the evidence produced during the trial upon the jury has been of assistance in determining the matter as to what conclusion should be arrived at by the court upon the questions involved. Although the evidence failed to saitsly me that the defendant was insane, yet it served to establish the proposition that he was not in a condition at the present time to be called upon to plead, as it was extremely doubtful whether he did understand the nature of the proceedings or was able to conduct his defence. The evidence in this case consists very largely of expert estimony, and a peculiar feature of this testimony was a concurrence in the conclusions if the facts upon which these conclusions were based actually existed.

It was virtually conceded that if this defendant was actually suffering from the symptoms which he professed to describe that he had the disease of melancholla, which is a phase of insanity; and the points of difference arso to the verity of the symptoms described, those experts who believed the defendant to be sane heling of the opinion that they were feliand, and those who testiden to his insanity believing them to be genuine manifestations o

GENERAL LITTLEFIELD EXPLAINS.

HE SAYS HE GAVE MRS. STEPHANI'S MONEY TO A LAWYER NOW DEAD.

The prosecution rested yesterday in the case of General Milton S. Littlefield, who is on trial in Part I of General Sessions, charged with defrauding Mrs. Josephine Stephani of several thou-and dollars, and the defendant took the stand in his own behalf. The cross-examination of the complainant was taken up by Arthur C. Paliaer, counsel for the prisoner. She was asked when her husband died, and replied that it was on November 19, 1883. She admitted having accused McKenzie of killing him. She told the physician sponsible for her husband's death. Dr. Janeway had made an entirely different diagnosis of her hus band's malady. She denied having said that she would ruin Dr. McKenzie's reputation.

Mrs. Stephani further admitted that she had charged her husband's nurse with alding in killing him. explained that the woman had opened the window and how brutally her son, who killed ex-Judge Clinton G. Reynolds, treated her. He never kissed her, but often She, however, loved him as much as ever nd her only wish was to get him free. She Daniel Dougherty, the lawyer, $5,000 to defend her son. Afterward she said that she understood that he regarded this only as a retainer. The witness had paid Howe & Hummel' $5,000 for legal services in because the lawyer often went over the questions again and again. The Recorder, however, came out victorious as usual. Mrs. Stephani says she gave pr. Walter M. Fleming $1,550 when he told her that General Littlefield had peld him nothing. C. W. Dayton opened the case for the defence. He said that it would be shown that all the money which his elient received from Mrs. stephani was given to Orlando L. Stewart, a lawyer, who died since that time, or to Dr.

Mrs. Lulu Foster, recalled, said that General Little field had spoken to her of retaining ex-Judge Stewart for young Stephani. Mrs. Stephani had told her that District-Attorney Fellows had received the flon's share of the money given to the prisoner, and that Mrs. Fellows and Mrs. Fleming had also received some of it. Mrs. Foster, who was formerly friendly with Mrs. Stephani, now says that she would not believe her General Littlefield was then sworn. He said that he had retained Orlando L. Stewart, in whose office at No. 45 Broadway he had desk-room, to defend young Stephani. He had paid the lawyer and Dr. Fleming every cent he received from the complainant, He had told her to meet him at No. 96 Erondway instead of at his own office to insure greater privacy. Mr. Stewart had desired the cash, so the defendant had had the check made out in his name. Court was then adjourned. but had not mentioned Mr. Stewart's name to her.

PROFESSOR GUNTON ON THE BLAND BILL.

Professor George Gunton, of the Institute of Social Economies, delivered an address last evening in the rooms of that association, on the "Economics of the Bland Bill." There was an audience of about sixty present, including several women, and the address, which lasted over an hour, was attentively listened to. The speaker declared hour, was attentively listened to. The speaker declared himself as by no means in favor of the bill, and went on to show that the passage of such a measure could only re-sult in causing a serious disturbance in the present mone-tary system of the country. There is nothing in the Bland bill, he said, which would afford any ameiloration of present bill as the one under discussion, would only result in bill as the one under discussion, would only result in making the Government a receiver and storer of money for which it had no use. "We need," he said, "a more flexible currency, and the money question belongs to econo-mics, and not to politics.
